

Teaching Interview Questions and Answers

Top Teacher Interview Tips.

Answer :: Below are some of the tested teacher interview tips to get the teaching job you want. Learn how to set yourself apart from the other candidates applying for the same teaching opportunity.

Do your homework. Use the library, the internet, friends and teaching colleagues to find out as much relevant information about the school district before your interview. Gather printed materials at the school district office. Speak to a teacher. teacher interview tips Focus on details like the school demographics, student achievement, its philosophy, extracurricular activities, special programs, school initiatives, staff etc. The more research you have done the better equipped you will be to answer and ask the right questions. The more you know about the school district, its students, and its curriculum, the better prepared you will be to prove that your skills and abilities match their needs.

Prepare and take a comprehensive teacher interview portfolio with you. Don't wait for an interviewer to ask to see your portfolio rather be ready to pull out examples of your work whenever something in your portfolio relates to what is being asked. Interviewers will be impressed by your planning and preparation.

Prepare good and unique answers to potential teacher interview questions that will set you apart as prepared and professional. Practice your answers, conduct a mock interview.

Prepare a list of thoughtful and relevant questions to ask in the teaching interview.

Choose the right interview clothes. You want to look professional and make a good first impression. For a teacher position more conservative and formal is the safest bet.

Particularly important teacher interview tips include checking that your public online image is appropriate and one that you would be happy for a prospective employer to see. Make sure that your email address, voicemail and social networking profile will not derail your chances of getting that teaching job.

Make sure you have clear directions and know where you are going. Arriving late for an interview seriously compromises your chances of success.

During the teaching interview smile, speak positively, and use your body language to express your enthusiasm for the position. Enthusiasm is key to successful teaching.

.... Read More

Are there any major issues that the school will be addressing in the coming year?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I have dealt with parents extensively in my previous teaching positions, how involved are parents in the school?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I am familiar with a number of approaches to classroom discipline. What is the school perspective on discipline?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

Can you explain your homework policy to me?

-

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I was expected to do a number of duties in my previous position such as lunch. What duties are required in this position?

-

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I appreciate learning and growing professionally. What opportunities are there for professional development?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I have valuable experience in integrating technology into the classroom. What kind of resources would I have access to?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I appreciate having an opportunity to contribute my input. How often are staff meetings held?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

Team teaching has worked well for me. Do teachers work in teams and how is this organized?

-

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I enjoy getting involved in team sports, what extra curricular activities are available for teacher participation?

-

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

I have found there are challenges and advantages to teaching both large and small classes. What is the average class size?

No Accepted answer found .... View Answer

What do you consider to be the physical appearance of an ideal classroom?

Answer :: Describe the physical layout of the classroom including seating, the use of resources and materials. Explain why the set up is considered ideal in terms of learner needs. You can present floor plans and layout designs that have been successfully used previously and pictures of your old classrooms. This shows strong organization skills. The classroom you describe will also reflect your teaching style and philosophy so make sure it is compatible with the needs of the teacher position you are interviewing for.

You need to consider the students you will have in your classroom, the topics you will be teaching and the technology and physical requirements that will make the learning environment as efficient as possible. .... Read More

How do you plan when starting a new study unit or topic with your class?

Answer :: This teacher interview answer should demonstrate your skills with regard to planning and utilizing resources, organizing, implementation, monitoring and evaluation. Again refer to a specific example to give structure to your answer. .... Read More

Tell me how you develop your daily lesson plan and what do you include?

Answer :: Take a couple of lesson plans with you in Your Teacher Portfolio and use these as the basis for your explanation. Discuss how you determined the lesson objectives, the conditions under which the objectives would have to be accomplished, what materials and resources would be needed, the lesson procedure and assessment and evaluation. .... Read More