Don't delete/remove anything with HJT! unless you know what you're doing. Doing so may negatively impact your computer.

I suggest posting your logfile at the forum below. They have volunteer experts who regularly advise users with removing malicious items with HJT!.

Answer :: Are you following from a video on Youtube or something?

And what version are you trying to make? v55 or v62?

For v55, you'll need a few things to actually do it:

- A MySQL program; Navicat is free and works well
- Files that go with MySQL to make tables
- A program to put the server online (I recommend Xampp or Wamp server)
- C++ obviously, which you seem to have
- Your maple story localhost file
- Hamachi, unless you know how to do it without Hamachi

If you only have C++, I recommend trying to search 'how to make a maple story private server' on Youtube...

If you know exactly what you're doing, then just run your MySQL program.

If it's v62, I don't know sorry.

Good luck? .... Read More

I need to make a software using Visual Basic as the frontend, and something like MS SQL Server or Access as the backend. Its a single user app, basically an Electronic Medical Records System for a single doctor. Which program versions do you suggest I should use for this? Visual Basic 2008 or VB6, and SQL server of Access, and if SQL server, which version of it. I wanna use software thats preferably relatively new, should offer all the functionality i need, but not be overkill for the simple application, and must be easy to deploy on a slow machine.

Answer :: If you are going to be using Visual Basic to write the program, you should probably stick with either Access or MS-SQL. There are some free editions of both of these products available from Microsoft, called the "Express" line. The issue i'm having is i'm trying to build a small class that handles connecting and disconnecting from an sql server so that i don't have to worry about it after setting the initial connection properties i'm new to using system.data.sqlclient and vb 2008 basically this is my code:

Public Function ExecuteQuery(ByVal SqlStatement As String) As System.Data.SqlClient.SqlDataReader Dim DbConnection As New SqlConnection(GetConnectionStr...
    Dim DbCommand As New SqlCommand(SqlStatement)

    Try
        DbCommand.Connection = DbConnection
        DbConnection.Open()
        ExecuteQuery = DbCommand.ExecuteReader()

    Catch ex As Exception

        Debug.Print(ex.Description)

    End Try

    DbConnection.Dispose()
    DbCommand.Dispose()
End Function

What i want to be able to do is 1. return the SqlDataReader (which i believe ExecuteReader returns) and return any potential errors that may have occurred should i just be trying to handle the null reference exception if it occurs (which would indicate a problem of sorts returning the reader) or how can i return the error code as well as the reader?

Answer :: While you can only return one value, you could pass the address of whatever else (exception flags, etc.) to the function parameters to be interrogated after return. .... Read More

My friend and website making partner is getting me to research website hosts for our first site. I have no idea what I'm doing. This is what he/we're looking for, and I'd love suggestions, as I have no idea how to start looking. (tips on how to look for this stuff is also useful).

Stuff we NEED

- Microsoft Windows based hosting
- ASP.NET 3.5 Service Pack 1 (SP1) (This is also mentioned as .NET 3.5 SP1)
- IIS 7 (Microsoft Internet Information Services version 7 which is probably indicated by the server using Windows Server 2008)
- Database - Microsoft SQL Server or Microsoft SQL Server Express, version 2005 or 2008
- Ability to use the Microsoft URL Rewrite Module for IIS 7 (some sites list this which is good, others might have it but not list it)

Multiple application hosting is best, the more the better.

We also REALLY want hosting that's in Australia, the UK or Europe, NOT the US.

Hostgator is about the best you can get with shared hosting

Yeah.... For less than $10 per month, you can host as many domain name as you want.

I use hostgator myself, because I like how much they give you to start with so you can grow before you need to upgrade, but there's plenty of room to upgrade as well. Good support, live chat if you want to ask them anything - even before you buy. My account was activated within 10 minutes and they replied to support tickets promptly.

Hostgator offers different size plans so you can start small and upgrade as needed. .... Read More
